VICTORIAN BELPER IN READINGS AND PICTURES

Audiences have welcomed this latest production from our Charity for its authentic voice and diversity. Life one hundred and fifty years ago in this small Derbyshire town was smelly, tough and dirty for almost everyone and especially hard on the children. But there is humour, pathos and relief here. Relief that while human nature may not have changed, the plumbing has; and children are no longer sent out to work, or put to work at home, before they are ten. Join us; hear it and see it all for yourself. You won't regret it.
